The Detroit Feminist Women's Health Center emerged in the wake of Roe v. Wade, along with other centers in California, Utah, Iowa, Massachusetts and Florida, as part of the national women's health movement. The Center provided gynecological services, pregnancy screening, nutritional counseling, prenatal care, and abortion and birth control services to women in a community-based, self-help atmosphere.

The Detroit Feminist Women's Health Center Collection consists of correspondence, reports, meeting minutes, conference materials, and publications documenting women's health issues and the activities of various feminist organizations.
